

Measurers

Under the Cadet Class rules there are only two classes of measurement items:

- 1) Buoyancy tests which can be conducted by a Squadron Captain, a Club appointed measurer or an Official Cadet Class measurer
- 2) Everything else, which must be conducted by an Official Cadet Class measurer.

In the U.K. Official Cadet Class Measurers are those persons who are recognized by the UKNCCA as measurers for the components concerned. They are categorized as follows:

- A) Those recognized for the purpose of measuring centreboards, rudders, tillers, tiller extensions and spars (i.e. the items that need stickers).
- B) Those recognized for the purpose of measuring sails.
- C) Those recognized for the purpose of weighing hulls.
- D) Those (very few) recognized for the purpose of measuring hulls.

The UK National Measurer, Simon Flack, keeps the "master list" of UK Official Cadet Class Measurers and it is updated from time to time. As at 1st March 2010 the persons listed below are recognized by the UKNCCA as Official Cadet Class Measurers in the categories stated after their names. The measurers are listed under their clubs, but there is no need to use a measurer from the club which you are a member of. The telephone numbers of those who are members should be in the list of members. Otherwise contact information can be obtained through the class administrator.
