Curling Game

This homemade curling game is a great idea to recycle old card boxes. It's very quick and simple to make. We love crafts that you can enjoy playing with afterwards as they tick all sorts of 'boxes'!

You will need:

Cardboard box
White paint
Mirror card bigger than base of box
Double sided tape
Permanent markers
Bottletop
Tooth brushes (optional)

To make:

Cut the sides of the box to a couple of inches high and remove one of the small sides completely.
Paint the sides of the box white.
Cut the mirror card to fit the bottom of the box.
Draw a target on the mirror card with permanent markers.
When the paint is dry, stick the mirror card to the bottom of the box with double sided tape.

To play:

Sit the box on the edge of the table.

Rest the bottle top half on and half off the box.

Use the flat of your hand to push the bottle top across the card.

If you want to play with friends, get them to sweep the path ahead with toothbrushes!

Extension:

- 1- Draw numbers in each of the circles. This way you can work numbers recognition with your child and addition. i.e. count how many points you make in 10 goes.
- 2- Draw letters and work on letters recognition. Or even words or symbols, depending of the reading level of your child.
- 3- Each one of the circles corresponds to a task. i.e. outer circle - make 5 push-ups; middle circle – spin 3 times; center circle – ask your opponent to perform a task.
