

Privacy Policy

When you use our services, you trust us with your contact details. This Privacy Policy is meant to help you understand what data we collect, why we collect it and what we do with it.

The only information we collect is the contact information you supplied when using the Contact Page. This information is used by us to establish initial contact with yourself and for no other purpose. Your information is kept in the strictest of confidence and is not shared, transferred or sold for any reason. Once contact with yourself has been established the details you supplied via the Contact Page are deleted.