Social Value Agenda for Public Services

The Public Services (Social Value) Act puts social value at the heart of commissioning, by ensuring that authorities consider the wider social, economic and environmental benefit that they can achieve when buying services. ProSpend Contract Management provides authorities with the tools to record community benefits and other initiatives that improve social value.

ProSpend Contract Management has for many years supported the recording and reporting of negotiated savings details, but the Autumn '14 release extended this significantly to incorporate the wider benefits attributable to a contract – as well as financial savings.

You're able to define the benefit types to track within your organisation, such as Living Wages or Apprenticeships and assign a financial equivalent value. Benefits are recorded against each contract and a dashboard will aggregate and annualise figures across all contracts to provide executive-level indicators against custom targets.

While other less quantifiable benefits such as community initiatives can also be recorded, and actively tracked using ProSpend's activity and calendar management, and document attachments.
