

Battery Safety Guide

Before charging your e-cigarette battery, it is important that you follow these safety precautions. Failure to do so could present a fire hazard and lithium batteries have been known to explode when incorrectly charged or incorrectly maintained. Our batteries are sourced from reputable manufacturers, but you should adhere to the following precautions to ensure the safe operation of your lithium battery:

- Always follow the manufacturer's instructions carefully; battery capacities and charging voltages vary, so it is important to check that you are using the correct charger.
- Only use the charger recommended by the battery manufacturer and never use a phone charger to recharge your battery.
- Pay special attention to any warnings supplied with the product.
- Do not over-tighten the screw connection between the battery and charger as this can cause mechanical damage which can lead to the battery overheating, increasing the risk of fire and injury.
- A charging e-cigarette battery should never be left unattended.
- Do not leave your battery on charge for long periods. Once it has finished recharging you should unplug the device.
- Never charge your battery near combustible items such as carpet or curtains.
- Never store in damp or humid conditions.
- Never expose lithium batteries to heat, water or alcohol.
- Monitor your battery during the charging process and disconnect it from the charger if it becomes excessively hot.
- Do not attempt to recharge batteries that are (or could be) damaged, dented or faulty.
- Treat your battery with care. Dropping a battery on to a hard surface can cause damage to the internal mechanism.
- For additional safety, we recommend placing your battery inside a LiPo bag during charging.
- Always dispose of lithium batteries correctly. Never place them in domestic rubbish bins.

At Choice E-cigs we source batteries and chargers from Vapouriz, a reputable UK manufacturer. When charging a Vapouriz battery, you should only use an appropriate Vapouriz adaptor and charger and should refer to their specific battery advice at www.vapouriz.co.uk.
