

Senturian Security Privacy Statement

Introduction

At Senturian Security we are committed to gaining and retaining the trust and confidence of our existing and potential customers. This includes visitors to our website. Here you will find information on how we treat data that we collect from visitors to our website and potential customers who contact us to enquire about our services or for a quotation.

Visitors to our website

When someone visits www.senturiansecurity.co.uk we use a third party service, Google Analytics to collect standard internet log information and details of visitor behaviour patterns. We do not currently analyse this data and we do not use Cookies.

Contact Us page on our website

There is a 'contact us' facility on the website where a comments / questions box can be completed and the site visitor can their name and contact details i.e. telephone number and/or email address.

When submitted the details are sent to info@senturiansecurity.co.uk for appropriate action. No data remains on the website.

Customer and potential customer Information

Senturian Security obtains data from potential customers who have either e-mailed or telephoned for a quotation for security services. This data in the main includes their name, primarily business/organisation address (occasionally their personal address instead), and contact details (phone no and email address).

This data is used primarily for sending quotations and billing. It is only used for marketing with the customer's consent.