

NICEC invites entries for the Bill Law Student Memorial Award 2019

The award is a legacy and tribute to the work of Dr Bill Law, Founding Fellow of NICEC, who died in April 2017. His work was recognised internationally and was significant in its impact on the way the career development is conceptualized and practised. The award will celebrate emerging innovation within the career development sector and importantly, the relationship between theory and practice.

The prize

The award will be made to a current or recent student who presents significant research and/or innovative practice to a panel of judges appointed from the NICEC Fellowship. The prize will be a £50 book token, free attendance at NICEC seminars and network meetings for a year, and public recognition via the NICEC website. The award will be presented at the NICEC conference in April 2019. The winning entry may also be published in the NICEC Journal.

How to enter

Your submission should be a written piece of no more than 2,500 words (+ or - 10%) excluding references. It should be written in a style which is in line with NICEC Journal writing style guide. You are free to choose your topic but we anticipate that you will write about something you have learned whilst on your course or undertaking research or practice. Entries must be submitted to info@nicec.org between 30th September 2018 and 30th January 2019. Only one entry per person is permitted.

Eligibility

We welcome entries from students currently or recently registered on a formal course or CPD programme in the broad field of career education, career guidance/counselling/coaching and career development. For example, qualification in career guidance, a CEC sponsored programme, or a CIPD programme. Membership of NICEC is not necessary. The award is free to enter.
