SUMMER
NEWS SHEET

RYA Dinghy Show 2016

Julian Bethwaite dropped by the Tasar stand this year to meet prospective Tasar sailors. Here he is signing Ian's copy of 'High Performance Sailing'. If you have not come across HPS before - it is the 'Tasar Textbook' for those who want to understand the physics behind the Tasar rig.

Love your boat this summer

Daggerboard Packing Kit

Experienced Tasar sailors know that few things upset a crew more than a daggerboard packing kit that no longer does its' job. The Tasar daggerboard is a loose fit in the centrecase. To make it stay at the height you want, you will need to make it a tighter fit by packing the sides of the box. In addition to that, the leading edge of the board will be damaged by the front of the box unless you have some foam padding lining the front edge; and the board will continually rotate aft unless you fill the large void behind the trailing edge.

Our Daggerboard Packing Kit includes the materials you need to do all these things, and to make sure your daggerboard stays happy and healthy.

If its just the aft packer or forward liner that you need, you'll find that the individual components of the kit can be bought separately. Please see the Tasarsailing spare parts website for details.

Rigging and Cordage

Often forgotten at the start of a sailing season is a check of critical rigging such as shroud wires. Look for the first sign of failure close to the ferrules that form the eyes at each end of the wires. If there are any broken strands, it's time to buy new shroud wires.

Talking of wires, those using wire main halyards will know how painful broken strands can be. You might want to consider changing over to a Dyneema halyard to avoid the problem.

Incidentally, Dyneema is the answer to 'curly halyard syndrome' as well.

RCB Shroud Track Upgrade

RCB shroud track and cars have been used in the fleet for a few years now. Many of us were unable to move the old cars all the way aft without resorting to considerable brute force so this system has proven to be very popular; especially with crews who are able to fine adjust the shroud tension for the first time. Installing new tracks is simpler than most people imagine. Our Retro-Fit kit includes all the parts you need and some of the tools as well - including a returnable jig that will help you drill the new bolt holes straight and true through the gunwale.

This newsheet goes out to our Tasar community but please share it with any prospective sailors too!

20% discount on all tiller extensions until July 15th

New Tasar Hulls - from £5,495 (Including VAT)

Two ways to buy a new Tasar
