

Donnellsons (London) LLP is committed to making the information on this website available to as many people as possible. Many internet users find websites difficult to use due to the way they have been designed and written. We recognise that this is an important issue and seek to ensure that this website is accessible. For more information on web accessibility, please visit the W3C Web Accessibility Initiative.*

If you come across any problems when using this website page, please contact us.

Donnellsons (London) LLP strive to make content as accessible as possible in line with the W3C Web Content Accessibility Guidelines. This is a judgement call; many guidelines are intentionally vague and cannot be tested automatically. All the guidelines have been reviewed and it is believed that all pages on this site are compliant.

Site Map

In addition to using the main navigation you can use the Site Map to navigate around this website.