

Cookie Policy

We confirm that according to our interpretation of the current guidance from the ICO (the Information Commissioners Office) and recent GDPR (General Data Protection Regulation) legislation that this website does not use third party tracking or analytic services and that it is compliant, as standard, with currently prevailing laws.

Statements and the information provided across our website about GDPR are based on our interpretation of current legislation prevailing in the UK.

Absolutely Necessary Cookies

This website only creates two Cookies and these cookies are 'Absolutely Necessary' for the functioning of this website. These cookies are 'ASP.NET_SessionId' and "JSESSIONID". 'ASP.NET_SessionId' stores a 'Session ID' which is used by Microsoft.NET Framework to deliver the web pages to the visitor.

These cookies expire at the end of sessions which is when a visitor goes to another website or closes their browser window. They have no way of tracking your website usage or retaining any of your data post expiry because they do not remain on your computer. This means consent is not required.

January 2021