

Leadership resources

There is a link between strong leadership, a caring and compassionate culture, and high quality patient care. Leadership is not just about learning systems or processes. Leadership is about being adaptable and making a difference by thinking differently. One of the key leadership challenges we face in the NHS is the ability to be able to deal with the pressures of today and to be part of the vision of tomorrow. Increasingly, leadership is about partnership – leading by working in partnership with colleagues, patients and communities across organisational boundaries.

Your Evidence Librarian is here to support you throughout your leadership journey. They can compile an evidence base for you on a specific area of leadership and/or to inform a new leadership role you may be undertaking, to save you time and effort.
